A Flawed American in My Proud America

Today the effects and lack of equality supersedes color regardless our individual cultures on origins there is one color of blood sharing the same oxygen by way of different queens better known as mothers – as a nation we've been gorged with false teachings although women and color are graduating opportunities the realities are equality resides in gated communities of fraternities and greed refusing to stop overreaching – our president would be convicted if he were from the hood but the double standards of our judicial communities relations and money superseded ill perceptions and systematic chaos like the disrespect is all good – however I must commend Trump for exposing a broken system during and after his presidential campaign the division is clear between political parties and the elite reflecting like a prism conveniently digesting rhetoric until they can portray the victims – so how tired are we for the do as I say not as I doers the message is clear to all levels and facets of life the rich are getting richer at any cost including the poor so how can fraternity abusers define losers –

American is harsh on uncontrolled profits but soft on politics when the elite or fraternity children commits crimes and perceptions and rational of public safety factors differs greatly while constitutional and civil protections for the lower tiers remains irrelevant – it's true that money and relations dictates and overthrows power for presidency political experience or the know with all are not required however like the roots doctrine, leadership, morals and ethical achievements are never sweet because poisonous fruits remains sour – beyond all the metaphors I am an actual statistic

"the power & purpose of sharing my story" highlights constitutional and civil violations undeniably supported by video not a crying witness I'm simply a flawed American in my flawed America enlisted –

Written (06/18/17) by Clifton A. Jackson
Your Oyezzz activity, s/m likes, repost & hashtags are appreciated!