

The Heart of a Lion

Globally speaking as a people our strengths, weaknesses, and availabilities may vary. However individually and collectively it's amazing how we have the abilities to adapt, survive and excel regardless the conditions or circumstances which in itself exhibits the heart of a lion.

Life has a natural pecking order starting at birth via maternal instincts where we immediately learn to follow, respect and mimic the movements of our parents and surroundings. Primarily from our mothers. So to respect the next person regardless the age exhibits a level of maturity and self-respect. However it is imminent that we establish the global importance of (1) respecting, and (2) with specific attentions on respecting our elders and the youth. Everyone has something to teach good, bad or indifferent.

Choices in life defines our individual presentations which subsequently plays a key role in our destination, regardless if we agree with the trailers or preview. To make mistakes and continue to have the opportunities to grow and learn from them are a blessing. The worst case scenarios are always death so we must always appreciate and never take for granted the opportunities of love, correction and life.

Although history known and unknown has had both a profound and adverse effect on mankind, regardless our race or cultures we have exhibited the heart of a lion. That within itself is a scripture of history.

Today we live in such a war like strategic society. However with wars there is always a purpose for the war and every step taken and or battle fought should be steps taken for the desired outcome. In life regardless our race or culture on our domestic soil war should never be an option if the ingredient of humility is added to the equation. The realities of wars the majority of times are there are alleged winners and losers of war. Most times wars are lose, lose, lost, lost situations.

For change individually and collectively we must unify and exhibit the heart of a lion to address many of our lose, lose, lost, lost situations which has directly and indirectly adversely effected the quality of life not limited to double standards & equality concerns, racial & religious concerns, availabilities and any and all unmentioned oppressive concerns.

If we want to keep watching our daily local and national news outlets to hear about all the madness from afar unit it touches home then keep doing exactly what you've been doing to achieve the same results.

Coming from someone who lived heavily in these streets if you want change, fill your heart and daily activities with humility and do the complete opposite of what you've been doing.

The heart of the lion can overcome anything if only a genuine process is activated and every human being acknowledges the fact regardless of race, cultures, countries, religions, or genders the heart of a lion exist in us all.
