

The Power of the Bench

Passion fuels love, life, hobbies and success there is not one family, profession, organization or sport who've achieved the desired plateau without role players or a bench whom are the equivalent to structural support – not to mention the importance of humility and remaining teachable which are some of life's key ingredients understanding if emotions are acts of hate dictate our actions we will continue to fall short in our efforts of global obedience – so we must admire and keep in mind our bench and role players when we cheer and exhibit confidence in our superstars they support the pulse and heartbeats that enables the dreamers in us to run like street outlaws and 405 racing cars –

I admire KD and the Warriors who arguably stacked the deck but we must not diminish the vision of the organization who built a bomb squad through various draft picks possibly the best ever speaking with all due respect – however their bench always find ways to elevate their games I'm talking the next man up concept regardless the names confirming why scouting departments and life builders are innovative in their schemes which are the conveyors to fame – although individually we work relentlessly perfecting our crafts it hold very true no one individual supersedes a team with that in mind to tell a closer not to close is like telling or expecting a dreamer not to dream – so remain studious everyone follows even leaders no one is exempt the pedigree of champions starts with role players and the bench so to pay homage to your supporting cast arguably maybe your best internal or external investment that was well spent –

Please join me and the Oyezxx family in giving a presidential salute to all the role players in our personal and professional lives.
