

The Tip of the Iceberg

When you think of icebergs mentally many will travel to cold climates like the North Pole however others may travel a path of thoughts while entertaining a leisurely stroll – regardless of what we see there are always a story and a makeup be it chasing dreams, the acts of hate or betrayal or that internal or corporate shakeup – today everyone wants to be socially relevant you're either a part of the gossip or the conversation and just because you go to church doesn't mean you're about your business or religion and not Satan – see my third eye and senses are acute with profound respect and ability to deal with the unknown although it's alleged I have the wisdom of an elder my learning abilities will forever be sponge-like overhead like drones –

I am full of imperfections so I'll continuously self-correct in hopes that my actions align with my words knowing the masses lies beneath the surface when we see or understand the magnitude of the tip of the iceberg –
