

What's Fear

Fear is when you broke and the feds knocking fear is standing trial against an opiate system mad at the purposes and profits of suboxones – fear fears anything undermining your clout look at the string of execs and moguls fearing inappropriate behaviors coming out – fear is when love worries about you nowadays fear is the thought of keeping your mouth shut confusing the differences of choosing and what chooses you – fear is not the attempts or the interrogations speaking of complete silence remains our best defense fear is when your garbage has been exposed to rodents scavenging out of hibernation – fear is living secrets of abuse or domestic violence although easier said than done the abusers can only win if your living life in shame or a constant moment of silence – fear is when obstacles appear insurmountable fear and laziness differs like sure things and probable that never wants to be held accountable – fear is when you are the one being judged power fears flight itineraries and air spaces of one love freeing we will all soar with the eagles and doves – fear is when hunger hurts to sneeze I'm talking fears that question God and looks at the Bible like cult or satanic scriptures so it refuses to read – fear is not the sentence or the time picture if there were no oppressive state of minds fear fears humility and the possibilities of a shine – fear is the thought of life without refreshments fear is followers being afraid to lead the leaders being afraid to follow in fear of acceptance – fear fears self-esteem so it's constantly degraded just know fear can be conquered when you believe and have faith your fears can and will be sedated –

Nelson Mandela once said, “The brave man is not he who does not feel afraid, but he who conquers that fear.” It is out of fear and doubt from which comes the greatest triumphs.

Susan Piver stated, “Fearlessness requires attention and receptivity – it takes focus to stand in the still eye of a tornado and not be swept away by it.”
